

TEACHINGS OF MICHAEL
Michael Message
October 28 2010
Channeled and scribed by Jeff Fasano

TheTransition
Being your Purpose

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We welcome you at this wonderful most glorious time as you continue your transition. What is happening now dear ones is you are moving from one lifetime into the next lifetime. And doing it in this lifetime in the human incarnation you have chosen in this third dimensional realm. You are transitioning from the old and into the new. You have opened the door and you have closed the door. And now walking on the pathway into the unknown knowing who you are and your talents and gifts to create the new, the new paradigms, the new life and the new world of community, harmony and equality.

You are now making this transition as you are ascending into the beingness of your purpose. You are now at the gateway at the intersection to connect with your soul's divine plan and your purpose in this lifetime. As you continue to move through your personal process, cleaning and cleansing your inner workings, your inner manifestations of the old you are deepening your sense of self. You are deepening knowing who you are and honoring and valuing you. You are getting to know you better. And now boldly walking on the pathway into the unknown with your talents and gifts that express who you are. And en masse and in your new groups beginning to bring the messages to the world.

In this transition period you are opening in the depth and breadth of your heart to continue this part of your life to fully live your purpose. Do you know your purpose? What is your purpose? What is transpiring in your life now as you look outside of yourself at relationships? And as you look outside of you at your third dimensional realm to see what fully resonates and what doesn't, you now can stand in community with all of it. And thusly release opposition to it.

It is now time to take stock in your life to see where you are and what is transpiring. And see who you are and your talents and gifts and then fully connect with your soul's divine plan. Where are you still trying to control everything outside of you so you will know that you are safe and secure to walk on the pathway into the unknown? And do this so will you will know what is next, who is next so you will be prepared for what you think might transpire. And protect yourself against what is outside of you? Or do you know that you stand in the power in the depth of your heart of who you are to now give of your talents and gifts to the world? And as you look outside of you in the third dimensional realm to see what and who no longer resonates based upon where you are resonating now, you will no longer make contact with what and who does not resonate for you. You may pass them by along the way and now in knowing know what no longer resonates, you will simply nod in their direction and move along. The reason for this is you have found the old relationships that no longer resonate for you and have released them. And for some you are in the process of continuing to release the old in your life. Yet now fully standing in the power of yourself by being who you are and honoring and valuing you. In doing so you are making the transition into being the Light Worker, the Way Shower for those who are coming to you. As now you pass those on the pathway who are resonating and vibrating as you. You can now begin forming your new soul family.

So Dear Ones We ask you, where are you in this process as you make this transition from the old life into a new life? What remnants of the old life still exist in your life now? What attachments to that old life still exists for you? Yet the key word is remnant for you have moved along and released a good portion of the old. However there are remnants of the old that still persists in your life. What are the old habits, patterns and rituals that you still use to maintain and sustain your attachments to the old so you will have semblance of an old reality that you existed in? Note the term “existed”. Have you lived that life? Or are you now on the path in full joyousness living the new life and creating the new world and the new paradigms for lifetimes to come?

Releasing old relationships. Is it isolation and separation?

Releasing old relationships is releasing lending and expending energy to the old that no longer serves your purpose. As you are now at the intersection ready to open the gate to live your purpose can you see how the old may not serve that purpose any longer? For example can you see the relationships that sustain the old behavior where you give yourself away with the notion that if you do so you then will be loved? Can you see the fear in you that if you fully state your needs and set your boundaries you will not be loved? Nor will those needs and boundaries be respected?

We ask you to focus your feelings on how you feel about your relationships. Is it more important knowing how another feels and knowing that and how it plays into the relationship or can you release that and focus on your feelings about it? For example: I feel wonderful if the other feels wonderful. This is part of the relationship yes, yet there is another part and that is feeling the way you feel and feeling those feelings. What about your feelings about the relationship? Can you see how making another's feelings the barometer for how you feel can separate you from your feelings?

If your purpose in life is to give from your heart without attachment, giving then to another induces feelings within you. There are also feelings that surface within regarding the entire experience of the relationship that are based upon you. Another way to give yourself away and negate your needs and boundaries is to say that if another is happy then I am happy even though I am having feelings that are different or separate from that.

Supporting others to live their soul purpose and process

Release your attachments to them. By releasing your attachments and making it about you allows others to live their process. In knowing that what transpires is for the good of all will release you from the energetic attachments to others and the narcissism of it as well.

The transition process is organically taking place. Step aside and allow the transition from the old to the new to take care of it self. It is time to build within yourself and stand now completely in the power of you. See through your imagination and intuition what will transpire in completing this transition process to the mount. See the enormity of it, know it yet not in a way that it will validate or gratify you. See it for yourself and others. As you are intending to live and be who you are in a world of community, harmony and equality know that as you move through this transition process releasing the old and the old relationships and the attachments to the old that no longer supports your purpose, it is time to move within the depth of your heart to receive those who do resonate and vibrate as you and have the same purpose. Begin to nurture these relationships. In doing this you will be confronted with intimacy. It is an intimacy with those who do resonate and vibrate with you and have a similar purpose. The only way you will be able to form the new soul family is to now confront your issues of intimacy. So We ask you begin to look at intimacy and what holds you in a place of avoiding it.

