A Period of Transition

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We welcome you as you are moving into brand new parameters in your life, uncharted waters as you are moving through life in this time/space continuum on your earthly plain. You are opening up to a new way of life. It is as if you have opened up a doorway in your life to a pathway where there is nothing surrounding it, as if it were empty.

What is transpiring in your life is you are closing doorways, closing doors to the old. Many now as you move into your month of August are in the process of closing doorways to the old. Moving through the process of this in the process of life.

As you move into the month of August doorways are closing. Old aspects of your life are beginning to come to an end. Old habits, patterns, rituals and behaviors are coming to an end and you are closing these old doorways. It is a process and it will be so as you move through your month of August. It will be a step-by-step process, a slow process if you will through the month of August of closing these doors behind you and quite possibly locking them shut. And then opening up to new doorways that will be opening up for you. Many are trying to figure out what the new doorways are. Your month of August is a month of transition. Transitioning from the old aspects of your life to new aspects of your life and not quite sure what those aspects are.

You will slowly feel your resonance and vibration raising in your month of August as you let go of the old aspects of your life that no longer serve you. Yet have served you in the past in your personal process to move you to where you are right now. Everything that has transpired in your life to this very moment in time has served you. We have spoken to you about this many times before. It is important to know that as you close those old doorways, what has transpired on the other side of those doorways has served you well.

What is transpiring now as you move into the month of August and through the process of closing those doors to the old is a transition period. A transition period of moving into the new. It is important for each and every one of you as you move through August is quite possibly to create a list for yourself of what you see and envision what the new will be for you.

As you move through your month of August and these doorways to the old begin to close you can celebrate that what you are releasing in your life, what you have experienced in your life that no longer serves you has served you well. It has served you well as you have moved through this point in time in your month of August and as you move through the month releasing aspects of the old, shedding parts and aspects of the mask, moving into a greater depth of authenticity and transparency. Then slowly move into the new and walking through that doorway into a new aspect of life and seeing it as a blank canvas.

What happens is you transition from the old into the new and move into a period of time to make the transition and this is what your month of August will be. As you transition from the old into the new it is not abrupt or immediate. It is why it is called a transition. As you transition from the old into the new many in their mental body will expect the transition to happen instantaneously, all of a sudden you will shed the old and move immediately into the new looking for immediate gratification.

It is a transition. It is a period of time where you will close the doors to the old at your own pace based upon your soul plan. As you close the doors to the old and you release the old it will produce feelings that will come up. You will move through a mourning period, perhaps a place of limbo where you will possibly be in a state where nothing is happening in your life. You are in this transition because you are raising your resonance and vibration to the new.

There are steps that are involved in releasing the old in your life.

You move to a point in time and realize that the old habits, patterns and rituals no longer serve you, yet have. You then realize that you have grown and have allowed yourself to move through these processes and you are where you are now. This is where you are as you begin your month of August. You then will release the old and as you do so habits, patterns, rituals and behaviors the energy attached to them will release as well. Not only are you releasing the old habits, patterns, rituals and behaviors you are releasing the energy attached to them. In many ways low vibrational energy. As you release this in the process the duration of the time of this process will be based upon your soul plan. Then upon releasing this you will feel the energy shift in your physical beingness. You then move into this place of transition so you can build a new resonance and vibration to the new.

As you release the energy attached to the old habit, patterns rituals and behaviors feelings will surface. It is prudent and important to allow yourself to feel these feelings and be in the process of feeling them. This is because you will also be in a healing process to heal what is transpiring as you move through your month of August. It is important to nurture yourself through this process and be aware when you become impatient with the process. This process requires patience as you move through your month of August. Allowing yourself to move through life at your own speed to allow the process to be what it is based upon your soul plan. It will be a unique process based upon who you are in your soul plan.

As you move through this process in your month of August, you will feel yourself releasing, feeling, closing doors and then moving into a knowingness in your heart space that what has transpired no longer serves you and quite possibly be a distant memory. You will close that door and quite possibly lock it shut. You will then turn and quite possibly move through a transition period into the new. New doorways will then open for you. As those new doorways open on the other side will be quite possibly a blank canvas or it will seem empty to you.

We say to you, when it seems empty to you and nothing may not be transpiring this is part of the transition process. You can view it as nothingness or a different form of nothingness by looking at it as a blank canvas to paint the new of your life. This is because you are moving into a greater depth of authenticity and transparency and into a greater depth of the beingness of who you are. Thus, moving to a level of powerfulness that will allow you to dictate the life ahead for you and what you truly want as the adult.

As you move through your month of August what is most important is to heed all of this if you choose so. But know as you move into your month of August it will begin a transition period into the new. Old doorways will close. You will close those doorways. It is not so much as the doorways will close for you, you will now close those old doorways based upon that is transpiring in your soul plan. You will move into a knowingness where you will know when to close that doorway and know that what was on the other side of it no longer serves your process of moving forward and towards the new life you say you want.
