A Message for December 2023

A Month for Closure

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We come to you as you are now moving into new aspects of your life in juxtaposition to old aspects of your life as you move out of your month of November into your month of December, the last month of your year of 2023. A month of closure. Closing the old aspects of your life that no longer serve you. Closing the aspects in relationships with others that no longer serve you.

In many ways your month of December is to look at the aspects of your life for the first eleven months of your year and see now what needs to close. What now needs to come to an end as you move into the last month of your year of 2023 moving into your year of 2024.

We come to you at this wonderful and most glorious time to ask you to look at your life. Look at what is transpiring in your life and look at what is transpiring in the relationships in your life. Look also at those relationships you are having with others you have gratitude for where there is a balance of giving and receiving. As We said to you when We came to you in your month of November, the way to look at your relationships is to see if there is a balance of giving and receiving. Look at where there is a balance of giving and receiving in life and ask the question, is my heart open wide enough to begin to receive love. To receive love for each and every wonderful and most glorious soul who comes to you in your life who gives you love.

Are you open to receive love?

Are you open to opening your heart space more deeply as you move through your month of December and begin to receive love from others outside of yourself?

Releasing the old behaviors, the patterns, habits and rituals that hold you from receiving love. The old wounding perhaps. The old aspects of your life perhaps. The relationships with mom and dad. The conditioning, the programming. Releasing all of this and moving into the here and now and begin to open your heart to receive love.

It is about closing all aspects of your life that no longer serve you. Closing all aspects in relationships that no longer serve you. Doing this so you can move into the new year of 2024 as an individuated soul now moving through life in the adult space and taking care of the wounded child.

As you move into your month of December it is a month of closure.
What is it that no longer serves you? What relationships no longer serve the new you?
What is the new you?

As you move to the end of your year of 2023 you are moving to a place to fully BE who you are. We have stressed this over and over again to you throughout your year of 2023. Moving from doing to being. Where are you over doing? We can stress this no longer. Where are you doing to prove to others that you are worthy of love? There are happenstance and situations that you are experiencing in your life right now where you are who you are and where you are, you are being who you are and there are others who love you just for that.

We ask you to look at your relationships and look to see those in your life who simply honor, value and love you for who you are. You no longer need to prove anything to anyone. It is time to end proving to others that you have to prove yourself to them. Where are you still trying to prove to others who you are being?

It is now about letting go of attachments to the third dimensional realm outside of you. We have also stressed this over and over again to you as well. Where are your attachments to the third dimensional realm outside of you that no longer serve your highest good? By now each and every one of you have come to a place of releasing the attachments to the third dimensional realm outside of you by simply being who you are. Releasing attachments in relationships.

We are now simply highlighting aspects of your life that can come to a close.

What needs to come to a close for each and every one of you?
What needs to come to an end for you so you can move through your life more joyfully in the full beingness of you as you come to the end of another year in your life cycle?
What is ending for you?
Where is the dependence upon others approval outside of you coming to an end?
Where is the ending of looking outside of you for validation and gratification for what you are doing in life that will prove to others that you are worthy of love?

Each and every one of you is worthy of love just the way you are. It is now time to open your heart space to love one another. To love yourself more deeply. Each and every one of you are taking strides in that direction. Loving yourself, honoring yourself, valuing yourself more deeply than you ever have before. Knowing you are worthwhile to be loved for who you are.

We also ask you to look at where you have given to the world outside of you. Each and every one of you from time to time think you need to give more. Where can I give more? What can I do more and give more? However, are you opening your heart space to receive from those to whom you have given? Are you opening your heart space to receive from those to whom you have given?

Many in your third dimensional realm think they have to give and give and keep on giving and give again. This is very noble if it is coming from a heart space with no attachments. But many give to prove to others that they are worthwhile. Many give and deplete themselves of their energy. It is time to open your heart space to receive from those to whom you have given.

As you move through your month of December it is now about looking at where you have given to those in your life. Then ask yourself the question, have I opened my heart space to receive love in return to replenish energy within me by receiving love from those to whom I have given?

Open your heart space. Look at the fears that you have, the feelings that surface when you open your heart space to receive love. Do you feel vulnerable? What fears arise when you open your heart space to receive love from another? Are there attachments? Is there programming and the conditioning thinking that if someone gives to you, what do they want in return? This is programming and conditioning that can shut down your heart space. Thinking that when others come to give to you there are attachments with that giving. What do you want from me? You must want something if you're giving to me? Where does this come from? Where is that wounding? What is the trauma attached to opening your heart space to receive love and trusting you?

We are highlighting aspects of what you may need to close in your life as you come to the end of your year of 2023.
