

Archangel Michael Speaks Channeled by Jeff Fasano

A Message for February 2024

Are You Fulfilled Within You?

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We come to you as you are moving into the depth of your heart space and into the grandness, wonderfulness and fulfillment of self as you move into your month of February in your new year of 2024.

We said to you as We came to you as you began your year of 2024 in your month of January to look at your commitments in life. We ask you that question again. What are your commitments in life as you are moving into your second month of your year of 2024, your month of February. Look at what you are fulfilled with in your life. What are you fulfilled within you?

We are not so much speaking about what is transpiring in your life in the world outside of you or the life you are living in the world outside of you. What We are asking you as you move into your month of February is to see where you are fulfilled within yourself. Fulfilled within the depth and breadth of the beingness of you. As you are looking at a greater depth of sense of self and see where you have the power of self. The power of the beingness of you, the power of valuing you, the power of your talents, gifts and abilities.

As you move out of your month of January and transition into your month of February and move through your year of 2024 in a month by month process, you leave one month and move into the next month it will be a transition. What you are doing in your year of 2024 is transitioning. Transitioning into a new beingness of self and being who you are.

As you move into your month of February We ask you to look at where you are fulfilled within yourself. Looking at What is in your life, what you have created in your life, your accomplishments in your life up until this very moment in time. See where there is fulfillment within you and in your life. What is most important to understand, as you transition into each monthly period you will move into a greater sense of fulfillment within yourself. Thus seeing where in many ways you are full within your life. It is not about looking at what isn't in your life something we have stressed to you many times before, it is looking at what is in your life, what you have created in your life and who you are in your life and moving into a sense of fulfillment. As opposed to looking outside of yourself to get something, to do something, to fill up a mythical emptiness inside of you that you think is not there.

This is why these last few years that you have been coming to us and We coming to you, We have been asking you to move into the full beingness of self. And asking the question, where might you still be looking outside of yourself for something to fill up the mythical emptiness inside of you that you think isn't there. This is part of your wounding and conditioning. And in many ways for most on your earthly plain a natural way of being because you are always looking outside of yourself for the next thing, the next person, the next moment to fill up something that you think is not within you. This is why We brought through to you as well as many others, a process of looking at yourself, your talents, gifts and abilities and releasing the old habits, patterns, rituals and behaviors so you can see that you are in a state of fulfillment of the beingness of you from the soul space.

As you move into your month of February it is not so much about looking at your life that is outside of you but looking at what is in your life within you. Also, as you move into your month of February look at your relationships. Looking at the relationships with those who champion your highest good. Who hold you in your highest good with you. Who honor and value and love you for who you are. It is time as you move into the new month of February and transition from your month of January, look at those relationships that fulfill your heart space, your soul space. The relationships with those who are in your life designated so in your soul's plan. Those who raise your resonance and vibration, champion your highest good. We ask you once again, if in fact you can see these relationships, are you opening your heart space. Is your heart space open to receive the love these wonderful souls are bestowing upon you in their very own unique way?

You are not alone. You are never alone. It is up to you to open your heart space to see those in your life and begin to receive the love they bestow upon you in their own unique way. Through the beingness of who they are. You might question that from time to time and wonder why they love you. Wonder why my heart is closed to receiving that love. That is simply because of your commitment to that.

Once again We ask you about your commitments. Are you committed to opening your heart space to receive the love that comes from a unique individuated soul in your life who bestows upon you the energy of love so you can open your heart space and receive that energy that matches your energy? Where is your energy? What is your commitment to opening your heart space to receive love? Or is your commitment to remaining shut down in your heart space based upon your old conditioning to keep that love at arm's length based upon the fears you have that are rooted in your wounding and the wounds of the child. What are the feelings that surface when a glorious soul reaches out to you energetically passing on and giving you the love you have always said you wanted? And you are remaining at arm's length with that because of your wounding and conditioning. Perhaps the mistrust of that? Saying perhaps, what do they want from me that I think I don't have to give back to them? What are the attachments to them giving to me? There must be some attachment to that? They must want something from me says the wounded child that is based upon mom or dad.

There are those in your life who are giving to you freely based upon their love for you with no attachment whatsoever. This is because they are loving you for who you are. This is an example quite possibly of looking at your commitments to receiving love. Is there a balance of giving and receiving in these relationships?

As you exit your month of January and transition into your month of February it is now about looking at where there is fulfillment within your life. Fulfillment in your life based upon how open your heart is to receiving love. Your fulfillment in your life within the depth of your heart space is based upon how available you are and how open you are to receiving love. And your commitment to that. Or is your commitment to the wounding? Is your commitment to isolating and separating yourself? That old habit, pattern and ritual of isolation and separation and pushing away who genuinely and authentically and uniquely loves you for who you are being. It is why We brought you many teachings of moving from doing to being.

Once again in your month of February We ask you, where are you continually doing outside of you that might distract you from receiving love? I must do something to quite possibly distract myself from myself.

As you move into your month of February, where are you simply being who you are? Opening your heart space to receive love from another? And thus opening your heart space and looking at the fulfillment in life. We ask you also to look at your talents, gifts and abilities and how you are moving into the powerfulness of who you are.

We said to you when We came to you at the beginning of your year of 2024, your year of 2024 is about stepping into the powerfulness of the being of you. Boldly stepping into the powerfulness of the beingness of you and opening your heart space to give to the world, you. But in that process you may question yourself. You may be frightened of opening your heart space and giving you to the world. Thinking, I am not good enough, I am not worthy enough, I am not perfect enough. Allow that to surface knowing that is still part of the old programming and conditioning and wounding.

It is now time if you so choose to transition into the full beingness and powerfulness of self. As you move into your month of February it is a month of looking at where you are fulfilled in your life. Where in many ways the well is full. It is filled with you. Filled within the heart space of you. Looking at where the old patterns, habits, rituals and behaviors continue to keep love from entering into the beingness of you.